The Air Inside: Understanding Indoor Air Quality

(.2 CEU) IDCEC registration # 7711 It is estimated that people spend as much as 90% of their time indoors yet very few realize the dangers of indoor pollutants, mistakenly believing that the air inside is much cleaner than the air outside. The different types of pollutants and the health problems each can cause will be covered. These health problems affect the young and older populations more than the general population. Additionally three strategies for maintaining acceptable levels of indoor air quality will be offered. There will also be a section on office buildings and the problems that can occur with poorly maintained HVAC.

Psychology of Color

(.2CEU) IDCEC Registration #7655 Learn the interesting impact color has on its environment. Color and design as it relates to the world around us by taking you through the past, present and into the future. Color does not occur as a fixed force in the environment—it occurs in the mind, and as such draws heavily upon our emotions, our sense of who we are in a given place.
